TARDIEU REVIEWS
MILITARY EVENTS
OF LAST 5 MONTHS

Says German Prisoners Admit That if Whole U. S. Army Shows Dash of Those in Battle, Cause Is Lost.

ENEMY SHOWING
DISCOURAGEMENT

Declares Teuton Reserves Consist of 47 Divisions, 23 of Which Are Just Being Re-formed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Andre Tardieu, French Commissioner of Franco-American War Co-Operation, who is now in Paris, has given to the Associated Press by cable a comprehensive statement summing up the military events of the last five months and showing their bearing on the present war situation. He says German prisoners declare that if the whole American army shows the same dash as the Americans who have been in action so far, the German cause is lost.

Tardieu relates how events in Russia, by giving Germany a crushing superiority, allowed the enemy from March on to undertake large offensive operations directly threatening Paris, putting Amiens, the pivot of the Franco-British troops, under fire and cutting off railway communications with the east and north. This was on July 18.

On Aug. 3 the enemy was brought back on the Vesle, the road to Nancy was freed and the access to Paris by the Marne was barred through operations in which the American troops played a prominent part.

Results of Fighting.
But the German army was still powerful and its losses were counterbalanced by the gains of the preceding offensive, Tardieu says. Then the British army assumed the offensive. Amiens was liberated, Montdidier fell, the armies of Gen. Doherty and Humbert started a war of position, and on Aug. 19 the French reached the Oise south of Noyon with Mangin's army. The events up to Aug. 25, when the main British attack began, are described, and Tardieu continues:

"Though it is too soon as yet to sum up as a whole the military operations extending from Aug. 5 to Aug. 25, since the battle is still in progress, the following results have already been obtained:

"1. Paris is no longer threatened. Our direct communications by rail between Paris and Calais have been re-established, as had been those between Paris and Nancy on July 29.

"Our third aim, to wrest the initiative from the Germans, has likewise been attained.

"The instructions given by the German high command to the German troops are now of a decidedly defensive nature. They confess that the situation is serious for Germany. Judging from reliable documents it seems that only 24 divisions remain, that is to say, 24 divisions having been withdrawn from the firing line for at least a month, are now all the actual German reserves.

"Twenty-three others are being re-formed.

"27 German Reserve Divisions.

"Forty-seven divisions whose morale has been considerably shaken constitute the Germans' last reserve in the present battle.

"The answers of prisoners, secret documents and letters addressed to German soldiers reveal a great discouragement among them. They no longer believe in victory, and with them it is only a question of holding on to save Germany from disaster. Germany knows now that the French and English reserves are not exhausted, and at last she begins to learn the value of the help that America brings to the allies. She realizes that the American divisions reformed after the operations along the Vesle, and strengthened by a constant flow of new divisions, are in themselves a menace every day more imminent. The German offensive taken prisoner before July 18, asserted that they did not believe in the possibility of the participation of the Americans in the battle.

"These made prisoners in the last operations recognize that the fighting qualities of the Americans are exceedingly great and their tenacity extraordinary.

"If the whole American army, they added, shows the same dash, the German cause is lost."

MAN TOLD FAKE STORIES 5000 CHILDREN IN
OF HEROISM, WON WIFE PLAYGROUND FESTIVAL

Canadian Arrested Charged With Wearing Uniform After Discharge From Army.

George Fellowes, a former recruit in the Canadian army, who was active last spring in British-Canadian recruiting work here, is on his way to Canada, in custody of a Canadian Lieutenant. He is accused of having worn an army uniform after his discharge from the service, which occurred Aug. 9.

Fellowes' wife, a stenographer in the employ of the Mercantile Trust Co., who was Miss Marguerite Le Pelzer of 3842 Windsor place before her marriage last April, charges that Fellowes imposed on her and others by stories of heroism in France, and that he admitted to her that he had never been in France, though he had been in England.

Mrs. Fellowes says her husband represented, before their marriage, that he was a Canadian soldier in the Canadian troops at the front, and that he had received various wounds. After their marriage, she says, he admitted to her that his only war injury was a slight wound, inflicted in London by a fragment of a shell dropped by a Zeppelin.

She said she found, in Fellowes' trunk, papers showing that he enlisted in July, 1915, but that he was discharged for physical disability in the following December. They quarreled on their wedding journey, and parted in Colorado.

Fellowes returned to St. Louis on Monday, and tried to see his wife at the trust company. She caused his arrest, and he was sent to the city hospital for observation. Later, at the request of British and Canadian officers, he was turned over to a Canadian officer. It was announced that he would be taken to the Canadian recruiting station in Chicago and questioned by officers there, before being taken to Canada.

TRANSPORT'S TIME IN PORT CUT FROM
4 DAYS TO 40 HOURS

Unloading Time of Our Greatest Troopship Reduced More Than Half in Four Trips.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Under the stress of haste to send American soldiers to the fighting front, the time required to unload the greatest of American troopships, bringing 12,000 troops, coal and other supplies, has been reduced from four days to 40 hours.

When the greatest of American troopships first came over it took 52 days to unload her at Liverpool. The next trip was better—28 days. Then on the third trip it was decided to send her to this French port where the Americans had begun to take things over. It was a risky experiment, they thought. But they failed to reckon on the Major and his black stevedores, for this is the remarkable record of how the great vessel has been handled at this port:

First arrival, 10,000 men and supplies unloaded and the ship coaled and sent back in four days.

Second arrival, unloaded, coaled and sent back in three days.

Third arrival, unloaded, coaled and sent back in 48 hours.

Fourth arrival, unloaded, coaled and sent back in 40 hours.

KING GEORGE QUOTED AS SAYING
AMERICANS "PUT PEP INTO US"

"It Is an Earnest of Victory Simply to Look at Them," He Told Canadian Editor.

By the Associated Press.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Twenty-four Canadian editors and publishers have arrived at an American port after spending six weeks in England and France as guests of the British Government.

W. R. Givens of the Kingston Standard, telling of a talk with King George, quoted the King as having said:

"And the Americans are very wonderful. It is an inspiration and an earnest of victory simply to look at them. Their great height, their perfect physical fitness, their fresh young faces and their buoyant enthusiasm are very stimulating to us who have had to endure four years of the brutal and the horror of war. What the Americans have really done for us is, perhaps, best expressed in their own idiom. They have given us 'put pep into us.' They have given us and to the French of their 'pep' and we know now that we cannot lose this war."

CLEMENCEAU AT RICHMOND
WHEN GRANT ENTERED

French Premier Is Not Surprised at Fighting Ability of Americans in France.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—M. Clemenceau, the French Premier, visited the headquarters of the American army which has fought so gallantly in Belleau Wood. Accompanied by a French General he stood in a barn chatting with the local American commander in the midst of a number of smiling American officers.

On one side of the barn a number of prisoners captured this morning were being marched away when he arrived.

Clemenceau told the American General that he had come to express his warm appreciation of the brilliant work of his unit. "A French General tells me that it was peculiarly American in its conception and execution," he said. "The American General remarked that Clemenceau knew the United States very well."

"Yes, I entered Richmond, Va., five days after Gen. Grant in the Civil War (he was a newspaper correspondent), and I had then many opportunities to appreciate the fine fighting qualities of American troops. Now the Americans are coming fast to France, and I am very much impressed with your troops."

RED CROSS CLOTHES FOR
U. S. PRISONERS IN GERMANY

Organization Buys Tailor Shop at Paris and Moves It to Switzerland.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Because American army and navy officers captured by the Germans frequently lose overcoats, blouses and other clothing, the American Red Cross has established a tailor shop at Bern, Switzerland, to make new clothing to be sent to their prison camps.

Food, towels, toilet articles and new clothing are being supplied through the Red Cross to prisoners. The first mentioned article being considered most important to supplement the prison fare, for which of their prisoners are required to pay cash.

Receipts for these articles are signed by the men at the camp, in order to make sure that they reach their destination.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 29.—German counter attacks east and southeast of Vis-en-Artois, east of Boiry, and in the vicinity of Gavrelle, villages to the east of Arras, have been repulsed, according to the official statement issued at the War Office today.

South of the Somme, British forces are keeping up their pressure against the enemy and are advancing eastward. Since Aug. 21 the British have taken 26,000 prisoners and 100 guns.

The text of the statement reads: "South of the Somme we maintained our pressure during the night and the day, and the enemy was repulsed in the vicinity of Gavrelle. Those attacks were repulsed with loss to the enemy after heavy fighting."

"In the British sector astride the Scarpe River the enemy delivered strong counter attacks during the night and the day, and the British were repulsed slightly as a result of repeated hostile attacks."

"The number of prisoners captured since Aug. 21 exceeds 26,000. In the same period more than 100 guns have been taken."

"In the recent fighting north and south of the Somme tanks have taken an active part on all possible occasions and have rendered very valuable and gallant service and co-operation to the infantry and other arms."

"During the night our advanced posts west of the village of Oppy were withdrawn slightly as a result of repeated hostile attacks."

Rupprecht was absent at the time.

The prisoners expressed the view that he should be with his army at a time like this, instead of being far away counting his Princess fiancée.

STRONG ALLIED FORCES IN RESERVE, GERMAN PAPER SAYS

Kaiser's Divisions Must Be Ever Ready for Attack Even in Calm.

By the Associated Press.
AMSTERDAM, Aug. 29.—The German paper in the west daily is growing wider and more terrible, says the Cologne Gazette, and through the British attack north of the Somme, has assumed an unprecedented extent. It declares that even the enormously long fronts in the Russo-Japanese war and the greater offensives of the present war recede into the background when compared with the present allied offensive.

The newspaper utters a warning that in the calm sectors of the long western front, strong enemy forces continually are ready for an immediate attack whenever prospects become favorable. Therefore, German divisions must always be held in readiness for a battle on these sectors also.

German semi-official reports received here continue to endeavor to reassure the people by representing recent events as costly failures of the allied forces to attain a "break through."

ALLIES RETAKE 50
VILLAGES IN 2 DAYS

Enemy Making Haste on Road Leading to St. Quentin, La Fere and Hindenburg Line—Mangin Captures Morlincourt.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 29, 3:50 p. m.—French troops are at the gates of Ham, according to dispatches from the front. The Germans lost three complete munitions trains at Breuil, five miles west of Ham in their precipitate retreat.

Actual possession of the village of Ham probably will be delayed, as the retreating Germans leave all ruins saturated with poison gas.

The town of Breuil, where the German munition trains were captured, is on the Canal du Nord. At Champion Wood, Erchen and other points in the line south of Neale where the enemy sought to bar the French advance eastward, says Liberte, the German rear guards fought to the last man and refused to be captured.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Aug. 29 (10 A. M.).—Noyon was occupied this morning by the troops of Gen. Humbert.

Gen. Mangin's men crossed the Oise river and took Morlincourt.

The French first army took Quenoy Wood, to the west of the Canal du Nord. The wood was a strongly fortified position and from it the Germans endeavored to check the French pursuit.

The rapidly succeeding military events not only confirm that the Germans have lost all control of their operations in the regions of the Somme, Avre and Oise rivers, but they indicated that the enemy's own retreat is getting out of hand.

The effort to stem the French pursuit by fighting rear guard actions with machine gun sections, leaving a section at intervals of about 400 yards, was only locally successful. On ground especially favorable for that sort of resistance, such as the terrain around Roye, it gained some time for the enemy, enabling him to move a great many guns and a considerable part of his material behind the Canal du Nord and north of Noyon.

Rear Guard Failing.

But once this system of fighting was mastered, the strength of the German rear guard dwindled to almost nothing. The Germans, hustled violently by the French advance guard, were obliged to risk an engagement with important forces or to quicken their retreat.

The Germans adopted the latter plan and, since yesterday morning, they have been making all possible haste on the road leading to St. Quentin, La Fere and the Hindenburg line.

The strong position at Quenoy Wood, just west of the Canal du Nord, from which the Germans endeavored to check the French pursuit, was captured by the French first army.

tried by means of the heavy fire of all calibers of artillery to check the French troops advancing on both sides of the Roye-Noyon road, was captured this morning.

Pressure from Gen. Humbert's Third Army from the west and from Gen. Mangin's men, who crossed the River Oise from the south and took Morlincourt this morning while other French troops were entering Noyon, adds greatly to the difficulties of the enemy. The increased danger from those directions will oblige the Germans to make further sacrifices in order to save Gen. von Hutier's army from disaster.

The Somme line having been made difficult for the Germans by the rapidity of the Entente allied pursuit, there is now a question, with the French troops ready to cross the Somme at the enemy's heels, as to where he will be able to make a further stand.

Gen. Mangin's troops began crossing the Ailette yesterday, it was announced this afternoon.

Earlier French Report on Fighting Along the Somme.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Violent engagements along the Somme front are reported in the official statement issued at the War Office today. The text of the statement reads:

"There were violent bombardments during the night along the Somme front.

"German forces made many surprise attacks in the Lorraine sector without obtaining any results. The French, for their part, made two incursions into the enemy lines in the Champagne and took 15 prisoners.

"The night was calm on the rest of the front.

In 48 hours the allied advance has liberated more than 50 villages. The allies now have won back more than two-thirds of the ground lost since the beginning of the German offensive in March.

The British east of Arras have overrun the powerful defenses which have encircled Arras and are getting dangerously near the formidable positions prepared several years ago to protect Douai and Cambrai. These towns are important railroad centers and vital to the German position, so that a fierce struggle may be looked for before the allies reach them.

Last Night's Reports From the Battle Fronts

PARIS, Wednesday, Aug. 28.—In a swift advance today, covering more than six miles at certain points, the French troops south of the Somme recaptured 40 villages, the War Office announced tonight.

The left bank of the Somme has been reached between Oisancourt and Nesle, as well as the west bank of the Canal du Nord between Nesle and Noyon, over the greater part of its course.

American troops in the region of Juvisy repulsed numerous German counter attacks and broke up an enemy attempt to cross the Vesle south of Bazoches.

The statement says: "The enemy under our vigorous thrust retreated precipitately on a front of about 50 kilometers. We have gained the heights on the left bank of the Somme from Clancourt to the region east of Nesle.

"Further south we reached the west bank of the Canal du Nord on the greater part of its course between Nesle and Noyon.

"North of the Oise we occupied Suzoy, Pont L'Evêque, Vauchelles and Porquerolles.

"Our advance today exceeded 10 kilometers at certain points. Since morning about 40 villages have been retaken. We captured three trains loaded with war material and took prisoners.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne there were spirited engagements.

"In the region of Juvisy the Americans valiantly repulsed several enemy counter attacks. A powerful German attempt to cross the Vesle south of Bazoches and Fismette likewise was arrested by American troops."

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 28.—The Australians have reached the line of Frenes-Herbécourt, according to Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters tonight, but have met with much opposition in their efforts to reach the crossings

BYNG'S ADVANCE IN NORTH MOST IMPORTANT PHASE OF BIG BATTLE, SIMONDS SAYS

Threat There Against Hindenburg Line Is Direct, Critic Shows, Without Allies Being Held Up by Desert Germans Left in 1917 Retreat.

By FRANK H. SIMONDS, Author of the Great War.

Ludendorff's retirement as a consequence of his defeat at the Hindenburg line, which he reached its last phase. Having hung to the old lines of 1916 as long as possible to permit the withdrawal of guns, munitions and material, and the complete renovation of the Hindenburg line, he is executing a "Hell-for-leather" flight to the place of safety.

We had exactly the same thing in the case of the second battle of the Marne when, following stubborn rear guard actions on the heights above the Ourcq for nearly a week, the Germans suddenly made a dash backward for the line of the Vesle, and the Sunday papers of Aug. 4 recited the list of villages recaptured, just as the newspapers are now giving a new list of the recaptured towns.

In the case of the Marne retreat the great question was whether the German would decide to stand at the Vesle or the Aisne. Today the question is whether he will halt at the line of the Bertout-Peronne-Noyon, which is the line of the Tortille and Somme rivers and the Noyon canal, or whether he will go straight back to the Hindenburg line. In any event, he is going back to the Peronne-Noyon line, which will be his next resting place.

Byng's Work Most Important. While the spectacular advance of the British and French from Bapaume southward are attracting attention, the comparatively insignificant advance of Byng to the north along the Scarpe is of far greater importance. The capture of Monchy Le Preux, the Bois des Sarts and Vis en Artois, supplemented by further captures yesterday, carries a real threat to Cambrai and Douai, while the fall of Bapaume, Chaumes and Roye are merely consequences of an earlier defeat, which will be liquidated when the Hindenburg line is reached. In a word, they are already discounted, while the new push has a present and a future meaning.

Allenby took Monchy Le Preux in April, 1917, but he could not shake the Germans out of their hold on the park at the east side of the town and, as a consequence, it had far less value to him than it would otherwise have had as an observation point. His offensive after the early April days, pushed only to help Noyon, was stopped exactly where the British are now making progress. From Lens right down to the Seneze River at Cherisy, the British are now at or beyond the line of 1917, and where they are beyond it they are on high ground of great value.

Now, it is quite plain that any further advance will bring Byng's army squarely up to the last circumstances of that wotan line, so much talked of in 1917, the Drocourt-Queant switch, running down from the never-broken section of the German line behind Lens, to the main Hindenburg line east of Croisilles. This is the ultimate barrier to British advance to Douai and Cambrai, and Douai and Cambrai are the keys of all the region now occupied by the Germans in Northern France. If the British can reach either, then the Germans must make a tremendous retirement both north and south. They will, indeed, have to go back to the Belgian frontier.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 28.—The Australians have reached the line of Frenes-Herbécourt, according to Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters tonight, but have met with much opposition in their efforts to reach the crossings of the Somme River at Brie and Peronne. The statement says: "South of the Somme the Australians, pressing the enemy vigorously, have reached the general line of Frenes-Herbécourt. The enemy is offering stubborn resistance in front of the passages of the river at Brie and Peronne.

"On the north bank of the Somme our troops captured Curly and Hardecourt after hard fighting, and are advancing in the direction of Maurebas."

"Between Bapaume and the Scarpe our attacks have been continued today and progress has been made at all points. The village of Croisilles, where the enemy maintained obstinate resistance, was gradually outflanked by London troops and is now in our hands. English troops fought their way forward toward Vraucourt and south-east of Fontaine-Les-Croisilles."

"After severe fighting lasting throughout the day, the Canadians have successfully driven the enemy from several strongly defended localities and have captured the village of Boiry-Notre Dame and Pelves. A number of prisoners were taken in the course of these operations."

"We advanced our line during the day north of Locon (Ypres sector)."

OUR MEN LOSE VILLAGE ON NORTH BANK OF VESLE

Fismette, Opposite Town of Fismes, Falls to Germans, as U. S. Troops Make Gains at Bazoches.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE VESLE, Wednesday, Aug. 28.—American and German troops were engaged on spirited actions today in the regions of Bazoches and Fismette. According to the latest report, the fighting continues at both points. Tonight, as a result of the local actions, the Americans had made some gains at Bazoches, while the Germans had recaptured Fismette, on the north bank of the Vesle, opposite Fismes. The fighting has been marked by much stubbornness.

Several days ago, when the Americans advanced in the region of Bazoches, the Germans retired into a wooded stronghold known as Haute-Maison, just south of the Soissons-Rheims road. Small detachments were left in the cellars in Bazoches to harass the Americans. Tuesday the Americans approached Bazoches from the west and maintained their advance during the night. Today the Americans made progress toward the town from the east and south, a detachment taking the Vesle in front of them. Since then the Americans have made further progress.

Fismette had been held by the Americans since Aug. 8, despite German efforts to retake the village. Several times in local attacks and by means of artillery and machine gun bombardments. To gain this bridgehead the Americans crossed the Vesle in force. For three days and nights after the enemy had been driven from the village, the Americans were without food or reinforcements because of the constant enemy artillery and machine gun fire. The Germans maintained their position on the hills commanding the village and only during the night were the Americans able to communicate with the southern banks. The Americans made temporary bridges across the river at night time.

Americans Advance in Their First Attack North of Marne.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Wednesday, Aug. 28.—The attack of the Americans against the Germans northwest of Soissons began shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, and within an hour the American line had aggregated something more than a kilometer, had been obtained north and east of Chavigny.

The Germans counter attacked, but, with the exception of the small part of one wing, the American line held steady. Where it gave way, about 300 meters, the withdrawal was due to the necessity of straightening the line.

The fighting, which for the most part involved the artillery, continued throughout the day and was still going on tonight.

A part of the activity of the Americans was a part of the carefully made and carefully carried out. It was preceded by artillery preparation.

Doctor Says Crying Need of the Women of Today Is More Iron in Her Blood

TO HELP STRENGTHEN HER NERVES AND PUT COLOR IN HER CHEEKS

Any woman who tires easily, is nervous or irritable, looks pale, haggard and worn, should at once have her blood examined for iron deficiency. Administration of simple Nuxated Iron will often increase the strength and color of the blood, and help women in two weeks' time and help make them look years younger.

In commenting on the unusual demand being made today of women in every walk of life, Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, says: "There can be no healthy, beautiful, rosy-cheeked women without iron. I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking women patients. Pallor, meekness and the skin of anemic women is pale, thin, the brain fails and the body becomes weak, nervous, irritable. When the iron deficiency is removed from their system, the roses go back to their cheeks, the blood is enriched, the stomach is cleared, the bowels are regular, the nerves are strengthened, and the women are made young again."

Women who lack iron suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. They are often cross, nervous, irritable, weak, tired, complaining creatures whom nobody wants to have around.

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: You can walk without becoming tired, you can eat without becoming indigestible, you can sleep without becoming restless, you can work without becoming exhausted, you can live without becoming a burden to those who love you.

Dr. King's Nuxated Iron is a powerful blood-builder, and it is the only iron preparation that is so easily assimilated by the body. It is the only iron preparation that is so easily absorbed by the system. It is the only iron preparation that is so easily assimilated by the body. It is the only iron preparation that is so easily absorbed by the system.

and the infantry advanced under a vigorous barrage.

The Americans moved northward over the brow of the long plateau, a part of that plateau separating the Aisne and the Vesle further to the east and the possession of which would make difficult the tenure of the position of that part of the German forces which moved northward from the Marne.

Little Enemy Resistance. There was little infantry resistance by the Germans, who are clinging to their recently adopted tactics of retreat, with the establishment of machine gun echelons supported by artillery.

The American artillery, acting with the French, smashed into the enemy and brought the lighter field pieces were firing point blank from an open field on the plateau.

The prisoners taken were from one of the Jaeger divisions. They were from a detachment that was cut off and enfiladed by the advancing Americans and surrendered. The French troops on either side.

In the action the Americans captured 92 prisoners, although they played a comparatively minor part on a front of about two kilometers. The French troops on either side.

An American patrol of 19 men and one officer was encircled in the Woerze region Tuesday night but drove off the Germans and captured a sergeant and two privates. It is believed that they inflicted casualties on the enemy.

Early this morning another patrol attacked and drove out an enemy detachment which has been occupying at night the same outposts that the Americans occupied in the day time.

ENEMY'S FIGHTING SPIRIT SEEMS BROKEN; THAT OF ALLIED TROOPS IS RISING

"This May Be Another Waterloo," Correspondent Quotes Officer as Saying of Advance in North—German Prisoners Despondent.

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1918, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.)

ON THE BRITISH FRONT, Wednesday, Aug. 28.—The battle which began a week ago has assumed greater proportions and the hard-pressed enemy is desperately attempting to check the victorious British and Colonial troops who are advancing over a large part of the 45-mile battle front.

In the north, Canadian and Scottish troops advanced to the attack yesterday morning, and when I visited that area later they were still advancing along an eight-mile front and had driven approximately two and one-half miles into the German lines. To the south the British Army has developed a big attack despite the enemy's increased resistance.

"This may be the beginning of another Waterloo," was the confident remark I heard today from a responsible officer.

The British troops have never been in finer spirits or more eager to press back the enemy, whom they see now groggy under repeated blows. In three weeks the British have captured nearly 50,000 prisoners and destroyed the effectiveness of many divisions. Up to yesterday approximately a score of enemy divisions had been identified in the fighting during six days, and today he is rushing up more divisions of Arras, where the Canadians and British troops have made such magnificent progress.

Canadians in Surprise Move. It was at an early hour Monday morning that the attack began east of Arras, and the Canadian, Scottish and English troops completely surprised the enemy, none more than did the Canadians, who had made a marvelous change of positions almost over night, and then advanced to the attack. Gumpfle and Monchy Le Preux fell early. This brilliant advance and the extensive wheel of the battle caused the enemy precipitately to throw in strong reinforcements from divisions which he had rushed up during the day.

Another officer, who had lived in America for 10 years previous to the war and had returned to Germany to fight, said: "If I had known before I went back how Germany had changed in 10 years I wouldn't have joined the army. I am going back to America when the war is over, if I can go again."

He said that often when an enemy attack was expected the regular officers, especially the Prussian officers, were withdrawn to divisional headquarters because the German army was so short of highly trained leaders. Reserve officers and noncommissioned officers were left to defend the attacked places, this discrimination causing much ill feeling.

Still another officer condescended to say: "America's new troops now coming in are like the first-class type of soldiers Germany lost the first two years of the war."

Captured officers assert that, although the bravest men are chosen for machine gunners, the infantry is suffering from tank fright. Officers and men say that a large percentage of the 19-year-old class is already at the front, and some of even a later class have been sent in to the fighting because they were strikers.

There are days and nights when the roads back of the fighting line rumble with miles of fighting trains. They respond to the songs of troops marching forward. It is the old-time march in his best fighting spirit, sure in his belief that the tide has turned and that he is on the wave of victory. I passed through miles of transports today and they were always going forward.

SURVEY OF DEMAND HERE FOR SERVICE IN EXPORT TRADE

Bureau of Education Specialist Confers With Withers on Nation-Wide After-War Program.

Plans were made yesterday in the office of Superintendent of Schools Withers for a survey of the city, under Government auspices, to ascertain the demand for trained service in the conduct of export trade and how the schools and colleges can best supply the demand.

Dr. Glen Levin Swiggert of Washington, D. C., specialist in commercial education for the Bureau of Education, explained the purposes of the survey. He said it would be made in 15 leading cities. Later all towns with a population larger than 25,000 will be included.

The Government decided to take up the work as an after-the-war proposition, Dr. Swiggert said. "St. Louis, because of its manufactures, its splendid school system and location on the river," he said, "is expected to prove a big export center for this country after the war. Through bills of lading via the Mississippi River now seem a certainty."

Dr. Swiggert stated that a series of questionnaires will be sent to export dealers, commission merchants, forwarding agents, credit and financial institutions. Dr. Swiggert was particularly desirous that it be understood the answers would be treated in the strictest confidence. St. Louis members of the Advisory Council are Charles Nagel, R. S. Hawes, Wallace Simmons and Mrs. P. N. Moore.

Negro Congregation Prays, Sings and Shouts 2 Hours for Unity, but It Comes Not

Leffingwell North Galilee Church Case Goes Back to Judge English After Failure of Conciliation Meeting.

Last night was the night when, in the calculation of Circuit Judge English, the congregation of the Leffingwell North Galilee (negro) Baptist Church should respond to its spiritual ministrations and peace should descend upon the two factions into which the church found itself divided more than a year ago, when Pastor J. Wesley Hall smote the church's one-armed deacon upon both cheeks.

The breach was widened a few weeks ago when Sister Hall, the pastor's wife, was accused of "gossiping about her equals" and there ensued a quarrel at prayer meeting which took one faction to Judge English on Aug. 17 with a petition that Pastor Hall be restrained from further preaching.

Judge English decreed that each faction should appoint a preacher; and the two preachers should name a third who, Judge English instructed, was to preach a conciliatory sermon with Psalms 123-1 for his text: "Behold how blessed it is for brethren to dwell in unity."

It was done. The Rev. G. W. Clemmons not only preached the benefits of peace on one occasion, but on three occasions, and then summoned the congregation last night to demonstrate how good was his teaching and how great the spiritual wisdom of the Judge.

Prayer Meeting as Preliminary. The church is on Leffingwell avenue near Benton street. It seems once to have been a two-room residence that was converted into a church on the theory that if it was not habitable seven days a week it might be habitable one day a week. Its size is 32 chairs crowded closely about a pulpit which, a rag carpet cannot conceal, is a dry goods box. Prayer meeting which preceded the mundane events of the night had ended in a mighty singing of "On the Glory Day," a rollicking melody of the levee type, during which the brethren and "sisters" had shuffled their feet and shouted in glee, apparently at peace with themselves and the world.

The Rev. Mr. Clemmons, mediator, rose in the pulpit. "Call the roll," he instructed. The brother secretary read the names of the church members. "The names of this congregation ain't all in that book," said Pastor Hall, who presented another minute book of the sister assistant secretary.

Instantly there was hub-bub. A sister exclaimed: "Dis ain't no regular election. They can't pad church books." "I ain't scared to say that Pastor Hall, himself, has had that book six weeks," a brother suggested darkly. A large man faced the congregation.

"You all let this man moderate this meeting," he ordered. Objections to Second Book. "Yessir," broke in the mediator. "I was sent here to meditate this meeting and I'm going to be the mediator. There may be folks here that has their opinions. I want to say right here that their opinions don't make no difference to me."

"But de coht said," broke in another. "I knows what the coht said," the moderator hushed him. "De coht said there was need for a mediator and I'm the mediator."

"May I say a word, Brother Moderator," another ventured. "No, sir. I wants to get this thing straight," the moderator silenced him. "We will vote. The mediator will recognize the roll of the secretary to explain why she didn't co-ordinate better with the secretary. The sistrin secretary's book is no good unless the sistrin secretary is here to explain where she got them names."

"All those in favor of Preacher Hall preaching in this church will rise." It was plain that whatever evidence of peace and good will, one for another, the prayer meeting gave, was beguiling, for the entire congregation on the right of the aisle rose.

"All those in favor of Preacher Hall not preaching no more, rise." The entire left side of the congregation arose. The aisle was plainly No Man's Land, flanked by trenches wherein the gauge of battle would be accepted readily.

From both sides came shouts directed at certain voters on the opposing side: "He ain't no member of this church," and "We voted that woman out last meeting." Back came the answers. "Dat Brother is a right-hand-of-fellowship member of this church and he's going to vote," and "dat sister has been to every prayer meeting and if she pray with us she's goin' to vote with us."

The mediator was counting. It was plain to see that some of the assurance with which he had declared that he was "going to mediate" the meeting was ebbing. The pastor's supporters shouted: "Is for us and only 16 agin."

The pastor's enemies were shouting: "Five of your votes ain't on the secretary's roll. We win, 16 to 13." "Who wins, Brother Moderator?" both sides appealed. "Now, de ain't no reason to get excited," said the mediator. "What you all excited about?" Then a light came across his face, you're trying to instruct the mediator.

The congregation was rather dazed and fled out slowly. Pastor Hall had the last word. "Y'har," he shook his fist at the opposite side, "you ain't goin' to run over me, y'har. Peace, huh?" The case that Judge English tried to settle with "Behold, how blessed it is to dwell in unity," thus goes back to him.

67 AMERICANS ARE DECORATED BY FRANCE

Medals of Legion of Honor Awarded Eight Officers in Fighting South of Soissons.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 28.—Eight medals of the Legion of Honor, 15 Medals Militaires and 44 Croix de Guerre, have been awarded by France to officers and men of veteran American troops south of Soissons for their part in capturing Berzelessee, Chasseille and Buzancy Chateau.

Those getting the Legion of Honor or medals are Brigadier-General Beaumont Buck, a regular, who, after most of the officers of his battalion had fallen, went along the front lines of the attacking battalion and led the first wave that charged into Berzelessee; Maj. Clarence R. Hunter, who after the fall of the command was severely wounded, reorganized it and another battalion as well; Capt. B. R. Legge, who took command of his regiment after Capt. Hamilton Smith was mortally wounded; Capt. Charles W. Ryder, who led his battalion four days in constant machine gun fire; Lieut. Paul Daly, who commanded a company and who refused to quit although three times wounded; Lieut. W. C. Jenkins, who regardless of all danger and under heavy shell fire, commanded his platoon while firing a rolling barrage until struck by a shell; Capt. Arthur J. O'Keefe, who under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, rallied stragglers and pressed forward into battle; Sergt. Andrew J. McFadden, who, when his platoon commander was killed, took charge; Sergt. Andrew C. Dorsey, who volunteered for several dangerous missions; and Sergt. John Donnelly, who, with five men, entered Chateau Buzancy and took prisoner more than 100 Germans. Others were Sergts. Alfred J. Houle, Robert Fisher, Harry Grumling, August Steidl, Corps. Elias Donkakis, Fred G. Husk, Charles B. Blair, George R. Mitchell, Otto A. Bjorkman and E. J. Smith and Private Chris Jensen.

Among the recipients of the Croix de Guerre are Capt. George N. Rubberg of Devil's Lake, N. D., and Lieut. Emile Latimer of North Carolina, who, after an explosion of ammunition at their battery, crawled through flames under shell fire to remove the powder that remained and save lives of their men. Another officer honored was Col. John A. Crane of Baltimore, who was a faithful and skillful commander in the zone of artillery and who proceeded on forward reconnaissance in the face of heavy shell and machine gun fire, where he was wounded.

19 BOYS "FROM THE CORNER STILL O K," SAYS LEE KILLIAN

Corporal in I. Co., 138th (St. Louis) Infantry, in Letter From France, Tells of Youths He Recruited. Corp. Lee Killian, 22, of I. Company, 138th (St. Louis) Infantry, in a letter to his mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Killian of 1807 North Taylor avenue, says that "all the boys from the corner are still O K." This is a reference to the 19 youths from his own neighborhood whom Killian obtained as recruits in I. Company. "I am the only one that has ever received a scratch," he adds. This is an allusion to his wounds, two shrapnel wounds in the hand, from which he has recovered.

"The French and English are good-looking soldiers," Corp. Killian writes, "but the Americans have the pep and spirit that will win this old war, and is winning it. We are licking the socks off of Fritz. We never have given an inch yet, and we are getting stronger and better trained every day, so you can see where he stands. All the fellows in I. are real soldiers, and fear has never entered their hearts."

Killian is the son of Lee Killian, a former city detective, who was shot to death about 10 years ago.

SOVIETS "ABOLISH PROPERTY" IN RUSSIAN TOWNS OVER 10,000

All Above Certain Value Done Away With and Mortgages of Over 10,000 Rubles Annulled.

By the Associated Press. AMSTERDAM, Aug. 28.—The Central Executive Committee of the Soviets, according to the Pravda, has decreed the abolition in towns of more than 10,000 inhabitants of all personal and real property, the value of which exceeds a scale to be fixed by the local Soviets. Mortgages of more than 10,000 rubles are annulled and the former landlords are placed on the same level as their tenants. The decree does not apply to industrial properties.

Mrs. Frances Kelly Gives New Bond. Mrs. Frances Kelly of 2809A Market avenue, for whom the police had been searching since last Saturday, when the $10,000 bond she had given to an officer a charge of killing her husband, Joseph Kelly, two weeks ago on Chestnut street, was set aside as being unsatisfactory signs, appeared yesterday and offered a new $10,000 bond which was accepted. The signers were Ferdinand Buerck, a saloon keeper, and Albert Mueller, an employee of the city Water Department.

COTTON OIL COMPANIES

PAY $100,000 IN FINES

Mississippi Settles Another of Trust Suits, With Still Others Outstanding.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 29.—Attorney-General Collins has settled the suit against the Refugee Cotton Oil Co., a subsidiary of the Southern Cotton Oil Co. The refugee pays the State a fine of $27,500 and one-third of the court costs in the case.

Four years ago the Attorney-General charged that cottonseed oil mills of the country were in a trust combination to restrain and keep down the price of cottonseed. After the suit was brought a number of the small mills came into court and paid fines averaging $500 to $2000 in each case. In December the Buckeye, a subsidiary of Proctor & Gamble Co., paid a fine of $3500, and now the Refugee pays $27,500.

This makes a total of about $100,000 collected by the Attorney-General in this case, and there still remain some of the largest defendants that have not settled—the American Cotton Oil Co. and its subsidiaries, the Mississippi Cotton Oil Co. and the Union Seed and Fertilizer Co.

GOULD-DOERR WEDDING TAKES PLACE IN EAST

Friends Here Surprised at Event at This Time, Although Engagement Was Known.

ST. LOUIS friends have received announcements of the marriage of Miss Dorothy May Gould and Ensign Oscar Rodney Doerr, U. S. Navy, which took place at Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 24. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Charles Gould of 4520 McMillan avenue, and Mr. Doerr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Doerr of Kirkwood. The marriage is the result of a school day romance, when Miss Gould and Mr. Doerr were students at the Kirkwood High School. Mr. and Mrs. Gould and their family formerly resided in Kirkwood.

Although the engagement of Miss Gould to Mr. Doerr was announced some time ago, the marriage will be a surprise to their friends here, as the wedding date had been set for some time in the fall. Ensign Doerr now is stationed at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, and he has taken his bride to Annapolis to reside while he is on duty there.

PLAYING OF BILLIARDS BARRED IN EAST ST. LOUIS IN DAYTIME

Chief of Police Orders Arrest of Anyone Caught Playing Between 7 A. M. and 7 P. M.

Chief of Police Sullivan of East St. Louis, in an order issued yesterday, prohibited pool and billiard playing between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. effective Saturday, in order that every man may devote the daylight hours to essential work.

In a previous order Chief Sullivan, supported by City Attorney Seymour, forbade card playing in saloons, clubs and cigar stores within the same hours. Policemen have been instructed to arrest violators.

CLASH OVER BOUNDARY AVERTED

Nicaragua and Honduras to Let U. S. Settle Their Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Nicaragua and Honduras have averted their threatened armed clash over a long standing boundary dispute by agreeing, at the request of the United States, to withdraw all troops from their borders and submit the controversy to the United States through their Ministers in Washington.

A decision of the King of Spain, who had been asked to arbitrate, failed to satisfy Nicaragua, and several weeks ago Nicaraguan troops were sent to the border to enforce claims to territory involved. State Department officials are confident that neither side has violated the agreement for withdrawal of troops. The understanding here is that discovery of gold along a border river is chiefly responsible for the controversy.

THE POST-DISPATCH Situation Wanted ads are consulted by St. Louis employers in seeking employment don't overlook the wants.

LIEUT. MILES GREGORY MISSING

British Aviator, 22, Was Born in St. Louis.

City Register Cuendet said today that his first cousin, Lieut. Miles Gregory, of the Royal Flying Corps, who was born in St. Louis 22 years ago, had been reported missing after a flight over German lines.

Lieut. Gregory is a grandson of Dr. Elisha Gregory, who, during his life here, was a well-known physician and surgeon, and the son of Elisha Gray Jr., now a professor in the University of Chicago. Young Gregory was a student in Germany when the war broke out, went to London and eventually to the British. He recently recounted in a letter to Cuendet his flight with two German planes, in which he had aided in the destruction of both.

HOW TO ACQUIRE HAIR BEAUTY

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist's a package of Canthox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the daintily perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing the hair dress quickly with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—ADV.

 I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Immortal Poland.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The 150 Polish officers and men who we have just been told by Washington await courtmartial by the German military for refusing to fight on the side of Germany, are, of course, only a small number of the total Polish officers and men that have been executed for the same "offense." We have it on competent authority that no fewer than 31,000 officers and men of various ranks were courtmartialled, their only offense being that they would not support a rule that did them unspeakable wrongs and became the avowed enemy of all law and righteousness.

But we at once forget to mourn so large a body of young men who in better circumstances would have joyfully offered their lives for their own freedom and the freedom of nations, when we think of the circumstances under which they were executed. They were not executed privately, at sunrise, or within the military circle, nor were they executed for desertion or mutiny. No soldier deserts a foreign army into which he has been forcibly inducted contrary to all accepted rule and order. They were not executed. They were cold-bloodedly murdered by their own enemy and the enemy of mankind—the Prussian autocrats. They were murdered on Polish soil by an enemy who invaded their homes and ordered them to take up arms against their very self, and they were murdered under the eyes of their fathers and sons and mothers and daughters. Herded like the brute animals at the point of bayonet with the malicious intent of cowering them into abject submission, were the suffering, sweating and the fainting sister and the dour mother—all caused to look at the silent victims. They were murdered in full sight of their villages, demolished by the bullet and the machine gun. They were murdered in full knowledge of the deportation of Polish men and conscious that they were many of the last protectors of Poland's womanhood against the lust of the Prussian.

Still, Prussia's misrule in Poland during the four years of military occupation is only Poland's Golgotha of her long way of the cross. The resurrection will surely come, but the way of her cross may not be forgotten just now, if only to hasten the resurrection. Poland's road was rough. Her advance arduous, her cross cruelly heavy. Except for her oppressors, Poland was alone. She had many friends, but they hid their faces when her oppressors looked up, and as she passed, falling away by the roadside, were her children. Thousands of them died in icy Siberia, other thousands died under the Czar's knout. Other thousands died a worse death. Then the Polish children cried to God for vengeance against the Prussian school master and the Polish land owner prayed that he might be spared his farm, and the Polish clergy prayed that their faithful may have a church and the Polish statesmen prayed that at least a portion of the taxes the Poles were forced to pay into the hands of their oppressors be diverted to the improvement of their material life.

Poland became a nation of prayer, and she lived, and not only lived, but prospered, and grew a body and soul and became a troubling ghost to her oppressor and a sweet solace to the oppressed, a joy to democracy and a fear to autocracy. Her universities became thrives as numerous as her school masters. Her scientists and her scholars became a legion. Her scientists and musicians, professional men and tradesmen multiplied daily. Poland became a huge spiritual force, which spells a doom to Prussianism.

And Poland grew in man power to become a definite asset to the allied cause, despite the millions of troops she was denied to furnish the Central Powers. We have it on high authority that once Poland is forced to release her hold on Poland, Poland could furnish 1,000,000 choice troops to either go to France or to establish an Eastern front together with the Czech-Slovaks and the Jugo-Slavs. Meantime, there is a relatively large body of Polish troops in France. Already the Polish army there has taken hundreds of German prisoners and won noble victories over their ancient foe. Every week 2000 Polish recruits are leaving America for France. They are mostly the recent immigrants who fled their country oppressed by the Prussian. Then there are Poles flocking under their colors in France from far Australia and South America, from England and Russia—all inspired with the one desire to help win the victory over autocracy.

With one-fifth of the troops that make up the Polish army in France, Poland won a hundred victories over the Turks and the Persians and saved Western civilization. With hardly more than one-fifth of her present troops, Sobieski won his victory and Kościuszko fought with less troops. Five hundred years ago Poland won a crushing victory over the Prussians at Grunwald with a far smaller army than she has today. Her present army is insignificant in comparison to the armies of the allies, but then the allies—four-fifths of the world—are struggling on the battlefield for what Poland has struggled for centuries.

Kindness in All Things.

From the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.
 That order compelling the Camp Sherman soldiers to shave offenders is all right. They are expected to shoot the enemy, not score him to death.

ALLIED VS. GERMAN DRIVES.

In the four months from March 18 to July 18 the Germans made four major offensives—five, if an offensive on a lesser scale which really was a part of the one preceding it, is counted.

They were undertaken after protracted winter calculations by the General Staff, in which they computed that Paris might be reached and captured by the sacrifice of 1,500,000 more Germans. The Reichstag, after gloomy deliberations and reckonings, gave its assent that the ghastly exchange should be made.

The allied offensive on a huge scale that followed in July was pursued so continuously it can hardly be divided into parts or episodes and numbered. In places it has beaten the Germans back to, or close to, the line from which they started in the spring and on this date has recovered considerably more than half of the maximum amount of territory lost for greater or less spaces of time.

It might be said that the allies are now doing merely what the Germans did earlier in the year; that allied gains but offset German gains, and that only partially; that in a balancing of accounts as the eighth month of the year closes, the advantage is still with Prussianism.

But there are important differences marking relative superiority which are not measured in kilometers. The Germans drove ahead for more than 16 weeks, their penetration varying from 45 miles at the deepest point to zero. They have lost a great moiety of this in six weeks. The allies have advanced more than 30 miles in places and the average is said to be about 15 miles.

German losses, both in their earlier advance and their present retreat, are horrifying. On many days the allies are taking more prisoners than their own losses in all classifications amount to. By the use of tanks and cautious, skillful tactics, the allies are making their gains with comparatively small expenditures of man power. The Germans' assertions as to the capture of prisoners have always been disputed, but the most they claimed was 50,000 in the four months. The allies have already more than 112,000 in their prison pens and are driving more thither daily.

The German operations were a stroke of desperation by a nation which, feeling the cumulative effects of four years of war and seeing its resources steadily declining, resolved to stake all on one throw of the bloody dice; which preferred sacrifices at wholesale, with possible success, to sacrifices at retail with certain defeat.

In the allies' plans the present operations are but an incident, but a preliminary. Whatever the expenditure of the things that make armies powerful, they know those expenditures cannot exceed the rate at which they are being renewed. New sources of strength will pour in on them faster than any probable rapidly in depletion and impairment.

The people of the allied countries are taking new heart, not because our armies are just now winning, though that is pleasant after the events earlier in the year, but because our armies are showing a mastery of the art of war they have never shown before. The era of blundering, of divided counsels and cross purposes, of insufficiency and inadequacy seems to be over. A new era of co-operation and efficiency and deserved success has come.

The Germans paid the 1,500,000 men and did not reach Paris. What gamblers ever faced a more despairing prospect than those who squandered resources on the greatest gamble in history?

STILL TRYING TO TAX OUR BRIDGE.

We thought the agreement of last year settled for all time East St. Louis' absurd assertion of a right to tax the free bridge public highway which of necessity extends across the river into East St. Louis territory, though that city contributed nothing to its building, and contributes nothing to its maintenance, while availing itself largely of its privileges cost free. But the Illinois city has again attempted to make this highway, of public construction and public ownership, a source of large municipal revenue as well as of private advantage, whose huge totals in dollars can be computed only with difficulty.

Even if some amicable adjustment is arranged this year, the question may be renewed in the future. Any slight friction in the relations of the two cities might be seized on by East St. Louis as an excuse for again making the bridge a cause of unneighborly and annoying contention. City Counselor Daves is right in seeking a final determination in the courts. It is evident one will have to be sought some time. Steps looking to a permanent disposition of the question might as well be taken this year as in some future year.

It should be made plain that it is a tax-free public bridge as a matter of justice and law and not as a matter of pretended concession and forbearance on East St. Louis' part.

SPAIN, SWEDEN AND SWITZERLAND.

Allied successes appear to have had a heartening effect on three neutrals, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

Spain showed pluck in sending her shipping ultimatum to Berlin. But would she have dared to do so if the German armies had still been advancing victoriously? And that she correctly gauged the situation is proved by the backdown of the German Government.

Sweden, in making the very favorable trade treaty with the allied nations, by which she agrees to give them the use of 400,000 tons of Swedish shipping and sell them Swedish products, including rich iron ores, in return for food, has accepted the maritime supremacy of the allies and admitted the fact that their fleets rule the seas.

And now it is said that even the German-speaking cantonnments of Switzerland are convinced Germany is in the wrong and cannot succeed in the world war. The Frankfurter Zeitung publishes a long letter from a German resident in Switzerland, who testifies to the change in public opinion. And the Swiss pro-ally paper, the Freie Zeitung, which was threatened with suppression, has been given indefinite liberty to express its views.

All this will help. It will be noted with alarm by the Potsdam plotters. They will see in it another sentence in the handwriting on the wall.

FLAME AND GUNPOWDER.

When flame and gunpowder are kept close together explosions may always be expected, and this is the superficial explanation of the fighting between Americans and Mexicans at Nogales, Ariz., Wednesday. It is no secret that the rival bodies of border guards on that frontier have no love for each other and it does not take much provocation to set them to shooting. A street brawl might do it. So might the studied efforts of German spies, who could wish nothing better than to see the two American countries at war.

The trouble at Nogales started when a customs officer tried to prevent the unauthorized and surreptitious crossing to the American side of a man whose identity has not been disclosed. The first business of our authorities should be to ascertain who this man was, what ulterior reasons he may have had for stealing into this country and what understanding, if any, he may have had with Mexican patrols to back him up if he encountered resistance. There should be very searching inquiries as to possible operations of German agents in that territory.

The Carranza Government is said to have apologized for the affair and to have promised to take steps that it shall not be repeated. The promises should be accepted in good faith, but the best way of showing good faith would be for Mexico to act promptly to keep the spy menace away from such dangerous territory.

Small as this affair appears in contrast with the great problems our country is facing, it has some very serious aspects. American patience is long, but it is not infinite.

The failure of a bank which loaned money on doubtful security is no financial index. It only strengthens the position of other banks which exercise more care in the acceptance of collateral.

MR. FORD BOTH LOST AND WON.

Up in Michigan it was said before the primary that if Mr. Ford were defeated for the Republican nomination for Senator, it would be chiefly on account of the exemption of his son from military service. Some were unkind enough to say that in the event of defeat the son would perform a far more valuable service than he could possibly render in the army, said service being in keeping the father out of the Senate, for which his qualifications were alleged to be vastly inferior than as a metal worker.

Father Ford was denied the Republican nomination after a campaign in which the embarrassments of running on two opposing tickets at the same time were exemplified, but Son Ford may hardly yet be credited with the service referred to as a possibility. Assuming that Mr. Ford does not decline the Democratic nomination—declination would leave that party in a very uncomfortable position—a contest is yet to be fought out in which he will be a factor whose importance is not to be underestimated. The size of the total vote and the proportion of the support given him by Republicans show conditions not present in former years and supply a basis for intricate calculations by the political prophets. It will be a contest between two of the very richest men in Michigan, the millions of Mr. Newberry, Republican nominee, having given him standing among the very wealthiest prior to the era of colossal accumulations originating in gasoline, and Mr. Ford, after one defeat, may be stirred to make a more active campaign than during the battle in which he both won and lost.

If Mr. Ford can do no more, his personal strength may assist in the election from two or three close districts of Congressmen who will give full support to the President and the President's party at Washington.

Famous war cries: "Push the boche to Berlin!"

'MARSE HENRY SURRENDERS.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, most stubborn and almost the last of the important journalistic strongholds against woman's suffrage, has lowered its colors and hoisted the white and yellow ensign of "Votes for Women." And this is how it announces the surrender:

So the Courier-Journal—the "Old Lady on the Corner"—whose voice has hitherto been raised in opposition to suffrage for women, is going to turn the corner and walk straightway into the ranks of some of her younger sisters. She is an old girl herself, but she can recognize the charms of the debutantes when she sees them. And she is going to dance the "Votes for Women" one-step, waltz, mazurka, polka and all the rest of the dances until the band plays "Home Sweet Home." The debutantes may be younger in years. But they shall not outdo her in the spirit of youth. In her hand she will carry a banner with the strange device:

"VOTES FOR WOMEN"

The quotation is the conclusion of a two-column editorial in which the journal seeks not to apologize for changing its mind, but to explain that it had been compelled to change its mind. The burden of the explanation is that the nobility with which American womanhood had arisen to new duties brought her by the war and the competence with which she had taken hold of her responsibilities had swept away all the arguments the Courier-Journal had been making for years that her place was in the home and it would lower her high estate to bring her into the turmoil of practical affairs.

This never was much of an argument, but, such as it was, nobody ever phrased it in more convincing language than the Courier-Journal did. It was a theme upon which the hand of its master virtuoso, Col. Watterson, played with a thousand variations, all of them sprightly. The women should be all the more pleased that when surrender did come, it was without conditions.

NATIONAL GUARD BOYS.

(A poem that is going the rounds "over there.")
 Didn't know much, but knew something,
 Learned while the other men played.
 Didn't delay for commissions,
 Went while the other men stayed.
 Took no degrees up at Plattsburg,
 Needed too soon for the game,
 Ready at hand to be asked for,
 Orders said: "Come!"—And they came.
 Didn't get bars on their shoulders,
 Or three months to see if they could;
 Didn't get classed with the reg'lers
 Or told they were equally good.
 Just got a job and got busy,
 Aikward they were, but intent,
 Filing no claim for exemption,
 Orders said: "Go!"—And they went.
 Didn't get farewell processions,
 Didn't get newspaper praise,
 Didn't escape the injunction,
 To mend, in extense, their ways.
 Work, bench and counter and roll top,
 Dug in and minding their chance.
 Orders said: "First line of trenches"
 They're holding them—Somewhere in France.

DEVIL DOGS.

I wish to dispute the statement in "Just a Minute" of Tuesday saying that "Teufel Hunden" as used in the Marine Corps posters is a grammatical error. I have looked up the construction in several German dictionaries and grammars and find that "Teufel Hunden" means "devil dogs," just as that frightened Hun calls the marines in France.
 And I guess the Germans who have to hike a dozen miles every time they meet a few marines should know more about it than even the most erudite civilian and authority on German language construction.

STORIES about the negro troops at the front are beginning to filter through the censor's office. One of the latest tells of a stalwart black private who went to his Captain and said:
 "Captin, I see how that nigger Johnson done gettin' a medal."
 "Yes," replied the Captain. "Private Johnson received a distinguished service medal for gallantry." The inky doughboy rolled his eyes and spurted out:
 "Well, Captin, ah wants a chance to get a medal, too."
 "You'll have to wait until the opportunity comes, my boy."
 "But can't you give me one o' them gospel joint jobs like Johnson got?"
 "Gospel joint job? I don't know what you mean. Johnson received his medal for bravery in executing a mission."
 "Dat's it Captin! Dat's de very word I was tryin' to think of. Dat's it—a mission."

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

IT must be granted that the arguments heretofore advanced against extending the vote to women have been powerfully urged. And the arguments themselves are not deficient in force. It has been somewhat shocking to the galleries of men to contemplate their goddesses in the role of ward-healers and stump speakers. They had seen some poor patterns of male politicians and they dreaded the reduction of women to such level. The wretched antics of Mrs. Pankhurst's belated and the scrambled spectacle of the White House picketers have filled men with a disgust over what they conceived to be a warning of what women would become in politics. Men will continue to hold this view. And it is not to their discredit to hold it, for it is sprung from chivalry and a desire to save women from themselves. But, after all, it is a sentimental ground of opposition. Sentiment is a fine thing, and those who feel such sentiment need not apologize. But sentiment once upon a time objected to women on the stage, in women in the office and shop. In these practical times women are doing many necessary things to which sentiment had adjusted itself.

The most vital and valid ground for opposing suffrage for women lies in its sudden increase of the numbers of voters, by which a heavy addition may be made to the numbers of ignorant, or, at least, thoughtless voters, by which process the responsibility of the thinking voter is deepened. That may well give one pause. But, since the republican ideals of the American form of government make no distinction in the classes of male voters and concede all men to be born "free and equal," that argument would deprive all women of suffrage while yielding it to the most ignorant of men. Women are workers, taxpayers, parents. In their modern activities they are substantially "free and equal" with men, in all things except the affairs of government, which touch them closest. This war has taught that if a woman's place is in the home she will not stay there if there is something important on the outside to be done, vote or no vote. In normal times her vote and the duties attending it will take her from her home, probably less than the tasks of war require. She is sentimental. If she love her home, she will love it as much with suffrage as without it. If she do not love it, she will neglect it for the thousand other pursuits which are available, suffrage or no suffrage.

The fine public spirit thus inspired and encouraged by the war ought not to be discouraged. It cannot really be extinguished. And, so, sensitive to the currents of the practical thinking of the time, appreciative and studious men may well seize upon the occasion graciously to give to American women their due. It should not be done through sheer gallantry, but from a sense of true republicanism, of opportunity to do a just thing, and, incidentally, in recognition of the fine decorum which for the greater part has marked the efforts of American women in their quest for this right. They may leave to the uneducated and thinking women the task of inspiring the other kind. Such woman might, perchance, be happier in their results than men have been with their intelligent fellows.

Sacrificing Yiddish.

From the American Israelite.

PROTESTS against the effort to abolish the use of Yiddish in the press and in the Synagogue cannot but be ill advised. A man who can not learn the language of the country sufficiently to read it and to speak it well enough for practical purposes, is not fit to become a citizen of the United States. This is a one language country and has been so from the beginning. We want no such troubles in the United States as the contention which the use of French as the vernacular in the Province of Quebec has produced in Canada. The sacrifice involved in the abolishing of Yiddish is infinitesimally small in comparison with the good that would result from such a step. We do not want a polyglot United States, like Austria-Hungary, and we could easily have it if we tolerated the Yiddish, German, Swedish, Hungarian, Bohemian, Russian, and best-known what other languages, dialects or jargons and gave them public recognition. This is, was and always will be an English-speaking country and even at that, it is a great pity that we could not abolish the imported title of our language and call it American.

Mrs. Flora was living a little rented cottage she had for many years. She should move, of she she got through her money then she thought she had to stay with her. She went out very little did go to the housewarming brother James—being a she decided that no one be made.

It seemed as if all had to that housewarming.

Oh, Money! Money!

A Story of Sudden Wealth.

By Eleanor H. Porter,
Author of "Pollyanna."

CHAPTER XIII.
The Dancing Begins.
CHRISTMAS saw many changes in the Blaisdell families. The James Blaisdells had moved into the big house near the Gaylord place. Mrs. Hattie had installed two maid in the kitchen, bought a handsome touring car and engaged an imposing-looking chauffeur. Fred had entered college, and Bessie had been sent to a fashionable school on the Hudson. Benny, to his disgust, had also been sent away to an expensive school. Christmas, however, found them all at home for the holidays, and for the big housewarming that their parents were planning to give on Christmas night.

The Frank Blaisdells had also moved. They were occupying a new house not too far from the grocery store. They had not bought it yet, Mrs. Jane said that she wished to live in it awhile, so as to be sure she would really like it. Besides, it would save the interest on the money for that much time, anyway. True, she had been a little disturbed when her husband reminded her that they would be paying rent meanwhile. But she said that didn't matter; she was not going to put all that money into a house just yet, anyway—not till she was sure it was the best they could do for the price.

They, too, were planning a housewarming. There was to come the night after Christmas. Mrs. Jane told her husband that they should not want their same night, of course, as Hattie's, and that if she had her right away the next night, she could eat up any of the cakes or ice cream that was left from Hattie's party, and thus save buying so much new for herself. But her husband was so indignant over the idea of "eating Hattie's leavings" that she had to give up this part of her plan, though she still arranged to have her housewarming on the day following her sister-in-law's.

Mellicent, like Bessie, was home from school, though not from the same school. Mrs. Jane had found another one that was just as good as Bessie's, she said, and which did not cost near so much money. Mr. Smith was not living with them now, of course. He was boarding at Miss Maggie Duff's.

Miss Flora was living in the same little rented cottage she had occupied for many years. She said that she should move, of course, when she got through her mourning, but until then she thought it more suitable for her to stay where she was. She had what she wanted to eat, now, however, and she did not do dressmaking any longer. She still did her own housework, in spite of Harriet Blaisdell's insistence that she get a maid. She said that there was plenty of time for all those things when she had finished her mourning. She went out very little, though she did go to the housewarming at her brother James'—being a relative, so she decided that no criticism could be made.

It seemed as if all Hillerton went to that housewarming. Those who were not especially invited to attend went as far as the street or the gate, and looked on enviously. Mrs. Hattie had been very generous with her invitations, however. She said that she had asked everybody who ever pretended to go anywhere. She told Maggie Duff that, of course, after this, she should be more exclusive—very exclusive, in fact; but that this time Jim wanted to ask everybody, and she didn't mind so much—she was really rather glad to have all these people see the house, and all—they certainly never would have the chance again.

MR. SMITH attended with Miss Maggie. Mrs. Hattie had very kindly included him in the invitation. She had asked Father Duff, too, especially, though she said she knew, of course, that he would not go—he never went anywhere. Father Duff bristled up at this and declared that he guessed he would go, after all, just to show them that he could, if he wanted to. Mrs. Hattie grew actually pale, but Miss Maggie exclaimed joyfully that, of course he would go—he ought to go to show proper respect! Father Duff said no then, very decidedly; that nothing could hire him to go, and that he had no respect to show. He declared that he had no use for gossip and gabble and unwholesome eating; and he said that he should not think Maggie would care to go either—unless she could be in the kitchen, where it would seem natural to her!

Mrs. Hattie, however, smiled kindly, and said, of course, now she could afford to hire better help than Maggie (caterers from the city and all that), so Maggie would not have to be in the kitchen, and that with practice she would soon learn not to mind at all being 'round among folks in the parlor.

Father Duff had become so apologetically angry at this that Mr. Smith, who chanced to be present, and who also was very angry, was forced to forget his own wrath in his desire to make the situation easier for Miss Maggie.

He had not supposed that Miss Maggie would go at all, after that. He had even determined not to go himself. But Miss Maggie, after a day's thought, had laughed and had said, with her eyes twinkling: "Oh, well, it doesn't matter, you know—it doesn't really matter, does it?" And they had gone.

It was a wonderful party. Mr. Smith enjoyed it hugely. He saw almost everybody he knew in Hillerton, a dmanly that he did not know. He heard the Blaisdells and their new wealth discussed from all view points, and he heard some things about the missing millionaire benefactor that were particularly interesting to him. The general opinion seemed to be that the man was dead, though a few admitted that there was a possibility, of course, that he was merely lost somewhere in darkest South America and would eventually get back to civilization, certainly long before time came to open the second letter of instructions. Many professed to know the man well, through magazine and newspaper accounts (there were times when

Mr. Smith adjusted more carefully the smoked glasses which he was still wearing); and some had much to say of the millionaire's character, habits and eccentricities; all of which Mr. Smith enjoyed greatly.

Then, too, there were the Blaisdells themselves. They were all there, even to Miss Flora, who was in dead black; and Mr. Smith talked with them all.

Miss Flora told him that she was so happy she could not sleep nights, but that she was rather glad she couldn't sleep, after all, for she spent the time mourning for poor Mr. Fulton, and thinking how good he had been to her. And that made it seem as if she was doing something for him. She said, yes, oh, yes, she was going to stop black mourning in six months, and go into grays and lavenders; and she was glad Mr. Smith thought that was long enough, quite long enough for the black, but she could not think for a moment of putting on colors now, as he suggested. She said, too, that she had decided not to go to Niagara for the present. And when he demurred at this, she told him that really she would rather not. It would be warmer in the spring, and she would much rather wait till she could enjoy every minute without feeling that—well, that she was almost dancing over the poor man's grave, as it were.

MR. SMITH did not urge her after that. He turned away, indeed, rather precipitately—so precipitately that Miss Flora wondered if she could have said anything to offend him.

Mr. Smith talked next with Mrs. Jane Blaisdell. Mrs. Jane was looking particularly well that evening. Her dress was new, and in good style, yet she in some way looked odd to Mr. Smith. In a moment he knew the reason; she wore no apron. Mr. Smith had never seen her without an apron before. Even on the street she wore a black silk one. He complimented her gallantly on her fine appearance. But Mrs. Jane did not smile. She frowned.

"Yes, I know. Thank you, of course," she answered wearily. "But it cost me an awful lot—this dress did; but Frank and Mellicent would have it. That child—have you seen her tonight?"

"Miss Mellicent? Yes, in the distance. She, too, is looking most charming, Mrs. Blaisdell."

The woman tapped her foot impatiently.

"Yes, I know she is—and some other folks think so, too, I notice. Was she with that Pennock boy?"

"Not when I saw her."

"Well, she will be, if she isn't now. He follows her everywhere."

"But I thought—that was broken up." Mr. Smith now was frowning.

"It was. You know what that woman said—the insult! But now, since this money came—She let an expressive gesture complete the sentence."

Mr. Smith laughed.

"I wouldn't worry, Mrs. Blaisdell. I don't think he'll make much headway now."

"Indeed, he won't—if I can help myself!" flashed the woman indignantly.

"I reckon he won't stand much show with Miss Mellicent—after what's happened."

"I guess he won't," snapped the woman. "He isn't worth half what she is now. As if I'd let her look at him."

"But I meant—Mr. Smith stopped abruptly. There was an odd expression on his face.

Mrs. Blaisdell filled the pause.

"But really, Mr. Smith, I don't know what I am going to do—with Mellicent," she sighed.

"Do with her?"

"Yes. She's as wild as a hawk and as—she is as wild as a hawk and as—she is as wild as a hawk and as—since this money came. She's so

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT

By MRS. F. A. WALKER.

Run-Away Robin Young.

MRS. ROBIN REDBREAST was getting breakfast when her husband came in with a rush and said: "My dear, you must hustle and get away from here; there was a frost last night."

"What is this, and what is a 'hustle'?" asked Robin Young, who was born that very summer and knew nothing about the Southland for a winter home.

"I wish you would be more careful about the words you use before Robin Young," said Mrs. Robin. "He means that mother must hurry," she explained to her son, "because this time she located the place from where the answering 'Peep, peep,' came."

Huddled against the tree where a rob forked was Robin Young, looking very sad and unhappy, his feathers all ruffled with the wind and cold. Straight to her child flew Mrs. Robin and nestled him under her wing. She did not scold or ask where he had been.

When Robin Young was quite comfortable his mother said, "Come, my dear, we must fly after your father and brothers. They left yesterday for the warm Southland and we must hurry before another cold night comes."

Robin Young followed his mother without a word. When he alighted on a limb near Robin Young said: "Mother, why did you stay behind when father and my brothers flew yesterday?"

"Because I could not leave you behind," said his mother. "I was sure you were safe somewhere, but I know you did not know about the cold in the Northland and I could not leave you to freeze."

Robin Young shivered, and he thought of the cold the night before. "O, dear, I am such a bad fellow," he said, beginning to cry. "I ran away, you see, because I did not want to go to the Southland, and if I had not been for you I should have died."

"There, there," said his mother, she put a wing lovingly around him. "Nothing is so much to be feared for a mother. It is the worry that hurts."

"I'll be good and never, never worry you again," said Robin Young, as they started again on their journey, and they were both so happy they flew so fast that they caught the rest of the family before they reached the Southland, and such a happy family you never knew before.

HINTS ON HOUSEHOLD CONSERVATION OF ICE

BECAUSE of the shortage of artificial ice has been somewhat curtailed, but there are many household economies which, if practiced, will insure plenty of ice for all.

The refrigerator should be kept clean, doors tightly closed, and the drip trap in place. The doors should never be opened except when necessary, and then for the shortest possible time.

No hot foods should be placed in the refrigerator. Cracked ice should not be put into glasses to cool drinking water and other beverages. A bottle of water kept in the refrigerator or water drawn from the cooler will furnish a sufficiently cool drink. Crushed ice should not be served in fruit, sea food, salads, radishes, celery, tomatoes, etc. These foods will be found quite palatable when chilled to the temperature of the refrigerator.

These little economies practiced in the home will be of material aid in solving the difficult problem presented by an inadequate supply of ice.—U. S. Food Administration.

CARROT SOUP.

SCRAPPE two bunches of carrots, wash them and cut them in dice. Set them on to cook, with just enough cold water to cover them and one-half teaspoonful of salt, and let them simmer till they are very soft, refilling the water which cooked away, when necessary. In a saucepan brown three table-spoonfuls of ground oatmeal with three tablespoonfuls of butter substitute. Mash the carrots well when done and add them to the browned flour. Add one quart and a half of hot water, and let it altogether boil for fifteen minutes more, adding a pinch of pepper and a pinch of sugar for seasoning. One-half tablespoonful of sweet paprika will give the soup an attractive red color.

LAMB STEW WITH CABBAGE AND POTATOES.

SET ON two pounds of lamb stew with a medium sized head of cabbage, about three pounds, which has been cored and quartered. Add sufficient cold water to cover all, one tablespoonful of salt and few allspices. Let all simmer slowly for one hour, then add two pounds of potatoes, peeled and quartered, and let all together simmer for 45 minutes more. The potatoes must be very soft and the gravy rather thick. If liked you may add ground black pepper for seasoning.

JAM CAKES.

MAKE A yeast dough of your preferred combination of bread flour, using one square of yeast to three cups of flour, one tablespoonful of oil or butter substitute and two eggs. Salt, of course, but no sugar is needed. When the dough has risen to double its size, fry it by spoonfuls in a flat pan, with butter or substitute. Keep the cover on the pan while baking, turn the cakes once. Bake them on a slow fire. They ought to be the size of a biscuit, split them open in the middle and spread them with jam or jelly. Serve hot.

FASHION BREVITIES.

William T. Tilden II, German-town Cricket Club, vs. Walter Merrill Hall, West Side Tennis Club.

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 28—

William T. Tilden II and Robert Lindley Murray spread their lawn tennis wings to soar above all others, in the thirty-seventh annual national championship singles tournament, yesterday. The tall Pennsylvanian and the California Meteor stood out so far superior to the others who displayed their wiles on the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills as to furnish a striking and very vivid contrast. Both won their matches easily.

Vincent Richards, the 15-year-old boy, once more illuminated the pages of court history by holding off Cadet S. Howard Voshell, the national indoor champion, from a victory for five sets. The wonderful boy did not win. His fame was not dimmed, however.

It fell to Walter Merrill Hall, the top 10 player, who, this season, won the Middle States title, to account for the defeat of Walter T. Hayes, the Western champion, from a victory for five sets. The wonderful boy did not win. His fame was not dimmed, however.

Tilden Wins Easily. There had been some expectation that Tilden would find very stiff opposition from Conrad B. Doyle, of Washington, D. C., a veteran, in the beginning from Tilden's cautiousness there was reason to believe that he had looked for a sterner battle. Doyle put all that he possessed into his drives and many of them were beautifully played, especially when he shot by the ball and came across the forehand of his unbeaten opponent. Tilden covered court so ably as to compel Doyle to attempt line splitting shots. The Washington man was not steady enough for this trick and as the ball fell outside, Tilden took the points.

The perfect flexibility of Tilden's game was much in evidence as he ran the chase on pace, he whipped the ball down the lines Doyle never had a chance at it. At the net Tilden volleyed and overhanded the ball, never using undue effort, but always making sure of the point. At all times he played well within himself and won splendidly in a romp at 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

Murray Outlasts Pell. Theodore Roosevelt Pell, master of the perfect backhand stroke, encountered Murray for only a little while. The score was 6-2, 6-0, which in a measure tells its own story. It was during this first set in which he rapidly worked to a lead of 4-1 on games, that Murray appeared to find himself. He went into the fray with his old dash and abandon. His cross courts and overhead smashes from mid-court had Pell chasing around on the opposite side like a frightened rabbit. Under the lively attack Pell tried to do other things, so that foot-faults were called upon him in service. This only resulted in flusterating him a trifle, so that in attempting long drives he played the court. Murray was right upon his toes at the finish, winning with 13 games in a row.

SPORT SALAD BY Edna

Seasons.

WE note that the backbone of summer is now yielding under the strain; But friends, she was surely a hummer.

Dead of cool breezes and rain. With joy we shall welcome September. And the opening session of school; Although, as a boy we remember, It didn't look good as a rule.

Consolation.

At any rate we are glad to know that the Browns won't finish in the cellar.

The Cardinals will finish the season abroad, with France as their objective point.

Due to transportation difficulties, Charley Weckman, the well-known writer, has an opportunity to cater to the home fans on the world's series.

Corp. Leo Kelly will tackle Joe Chip, a chip off the same block as his brother George, on Labor day.

Joe Kelly will endeavor to make Joe look like a white chip in a stack of blues.

Who Cares? Jess Willard announces that he will not defend his title until after the war. We merely mention this as you can't tell but there might be somebody somewhere in America who is interested in Mr. Willard's movements.

See where the Brooklyn cricket club nosed out the Longfellow in the Metropolitan District Cricket League by 57 runs.

Piling up 223 runs the Manor Field cricket club defeated the Benson, hurst Field Club by 188 runs. Too close for comfort.

With Ty Cobb, Branch Rickey and Christy Mathewson in the gas and flame division it looks like the Kaiser is in for a pretty hot time.

Sixteen thousand jacks saw the Cubs wallop the Great Lakes team. Which explains in a measure the falling off of the crowds at the regular ball parks where they ain't.

Giddap! Charley Comiskey fell down on the world's series this year, but Charley never Weckman stepped into the breach and saved the plum to Chicago. You can't keep these Charley guys down.

It fell to Walter Merrill Hall, the top 10 player, who, this season, won the Middle States title, to account for the defeat of Walter T. Hayes, the Western champion, from a victory for five sets. The wonderful boy did not win. His fame was not dimmed, however.

There had been some expectation that Tilden would find very stiff opposition from Conrad B. Doyle, of Washington, D. C., a veteran, in the beginning from Tilden's cautiousness there was reason to believe that he had looked for a sterner battle. Doyle put all that he possessed into his drives and many of them were beautifully played, especially when he shot by the ball and came across the forehand of his unbeaten opponent. Tilden covered court so ably as to compel Doyle to attempt line splitting shots. The Washington man was not steady enough for this trick and as the ball fell outside, Tilden took the points.

The perfect flexibility of Tilden's game was much in evidence as he ran the chase on pace, he whipped the ball down the lines Doyle never had a chance at it. At the net Tilden volleyed and overhanded the ball, never using undue effort, but always making sure of the point. At all times he played well within himself and won splendidly in a romp at 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

Murray Outlasts Pell. Theodore Roosevelt Pell, master of the perfect backhand stroke, encountered Murray for only a little while. The score was 6-2, 6-0, which in a measure tells its own story. It was during this first set in which he rapidly worked to a lead of 4-1 on games, that Murray appeared to find himself. He went into the fray with his old dash and abandon. His cross courts and overhead smashes from mid-court had Pell chasing around on the opposite side like a frightened rabbit. Under the lively attack Pell tried to do other things, so that foot-faults were called upon him in service. This only resulted in flusterating him a trifle, so that in attempting long drives he played the court. Murray was right upon his toes at the finish, winning with 13 games in a row.

Red Sox Pitcher, Former Bench Warmer, Has Great Record For 1918 Campaign.

With only five more playing days remaining in the American League, the Red Sox by their victory yesterday, when the Indians were losing are now practically assured of the American League pennant, and the right to play the Chicago Cubs for the world's championship.

Joe Mauer, the pitcher, now need is two victories to clinch the flag in the Ban Johnson circuit. Even if the Indians win their remaining six battles, Mauer will have won two of his five engagements. If the clubs do this, the Sox will be out in front by three points when the curtain is run down.

Watch This Jones. A pitcher who has been almost entirely overlooked, and who may prove the hero for the Red Sox in the coming series is Sam Jones, a right-hander. Jones rode the bench for a full season, but has been doing his share of the work this campaign. Jones has pitched in the last three games, and he won his first game against the Yankees, in a percentage of 55.9.

Beat Browns Four Times. This is a better mark than that owned by any other of Barrow's pitchers. Western clubs have proved the Browns four times, the White Sox and Tigers twice and the Indians three times. He also owns two victories over the Nationals and one each over the Yankees and Athletics. He has started 15 games and has been able to go the route in 15 of them.

Vaughn Weakening? While Jim Vaughn, the big left-hander, is still the leading pitcher for the Cubs, the National League representative in the coming series the southpaw had had his troubles lately. He has lost two of his last three games, and he is not expected to go the full eight rounds.

Three preliminaries have been arranged. The first two will be preliminary, while Willie Neila meets Jimmie Kelly and Jack Davis will ring up the curtain in a four-round line.

KID REGAN DETAILED ON SUB-CHASER; HAS BOXED 6 BOUTS IN NEW JERSEY

Kid Regan, local bantamweight boxer, who enlisted in the navy, is finding plenty of time for activities in the ring according to a letter received from him by a St. Louis friend. Regan writes he has had six bouts in the past two weeks, most of which have been in New Jersey. Regan is now on a subchaser detailed on patrol duty at the New York harbor.

Regan writes he had to get a fresh start as a preliminary boxer, but he has been graduated to the ranks of the semiprofessionals. He is likely to meet the Ted Lewis-Benny Leonard encounter, Sept. 10. Among the other bouts which he has won are two over Jimmie Kelly, Johnny Edwards and Frankie Denny. All of the latter were 4-round bouts.

In his letter, he says preliminary, the "vets" even though they are paid $30 for six rounds. He also says he expects to return here on a four-round next month.

WRAY BROWN DEFEATS OPPONENT IN NATIONAL JUNIOR NET TOURNEY

FOREST HILLS, Aug. 29.—The opening battles of the Junior and senior singles in the National Lawn Tennis championship on the turf of the West Side Tennis Club, here yesterday, resulted in spirited and well-fought battles.

Wray B. Brown, the St. Louis Junior, won his first round contest in the boys' national championship, by a stroke driving prettily from all parts of the court. By an occasional series at the net he took the measure of R. Westman of Rochester, entrant, by the score of 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

From the manner in which he played his opponent, the rallies, Brown displayed form of considerable promise. He was always hitting with judgment and pace in the rallies, compelling Westman to take the ball on the run. The battle between the two was one of the best fought of the series which began during the day of 16. Brown meets E. C. Simmons of Los Angeles, the winner of the California intercollegiate title in the battle for the semi-final round today.

The playing of Simmons was fast and chiefly of the net attack order. He had excellent command of his shots so that he defeated T. Benton, a Junior star from Washington, D. C., by the score of 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

R. Rosebough, the St. Louis boy, entered in the boys' national championship singles, did not appear for his match today. He was drawn against A. Bassford III of New York. No default was taken.
